GOURD

Fac-simile of "Big Stick" Presented
to Mr. Bryan

ADDRESSES THE FARMERS

Would Rely on Ability to Lead Through Love,
Not Fear

Receives Many Invitations to Deliver Addresses—Campaign
Funds Coming From People.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 14—Like the calm that follows the storm was the condition at Fairview.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Bryan rose unusually late and each showed the effects of the severe strain of the last two days to which they were subjected by the incidental features of the notification ceremonies.

Except for a large delegation from Otoe county, Nebraska, callers were few. The Otoe county folks presented Mr. Bryan a gourd of unusual shape, which is almost an exact original of the Roosevelt "big stick," save the gnarled knots that the caricaturists attach to that emblem of the President's power.

The gourd, with its inscription of "Bryan's big stick," moved the Democratic presidential nominee to make a short speech to his visitors, in which he said:

"The gourd which you present certainly looks very much like the 'big stick' as we have seen in caricature, and I think that the gourd is a fitting emblem to represent Republican policies, for the 'big stick,' so loudly praised, has not accomplished a great deal in the way of actual legislation.

"Republican leaders have so steadfastly opposed reform that the 'big stick' has been quite empty—as empty
as this gourd—in actual results.

"Then, too, the gourd may fitly symbolize the hollowness of Republican promises, and the fact that Republican policies have nothing in them of good to the farmer. I shall be glad to accept the 'big stick' gourd, although, if the Democratic party wins, the 'big stick' will not be in evidence.

The Democratic idea is not coercion by force, but a justice that will appeal to the hearts of men, for it is easier to lead people through their love than to control them through their fears.

"I have been informed that on the way to Lincoln a collection was taken up on the train, and that 50 farmers gave $1 apiece to our campaign fund.
I want to thank them for this manifestation of their interest in our cause.

"In 1896 the free excursion was one of the features of the Republican campaign. It is significant that you not only pay your fare, but, in addition, make this contribution to the campaign fund.

"One of the chief reasons for delay of reform has been that a few great corporations have been supplying the Republican party with its campaign fund, and then controlling the policies after election. Our campaign fund is coming from the people, and the people will control the administration in case of Democratic victory.

"It marks the beginning of a new era in politics, an era in which the government will really belong to the people, and be administered by the people for their own protection and for the advancement of the public welfare."

Upon only two political events of recent occurrence would Mr. Bryan consent to be quoted today. When asked what he thought of the resolution adopted by the Republican state committee of Oklahoma, in which it was asserted that the efforts of the Bryan managers to collect a campaign fund by popular subscription are "un-dignified," he inquired:

"Which is more important, dignity or honesty?"

He said this when reminded that the Colorado labor organizations had indorsed his candidacy.

"I am glad to hear it. A number of labor organizations have done the same thing, and I think our platform entitles the party to the support of the laboring man."

Isaac Reese, of Tennessee, member of the campaign finance committee, exhibited to Mr. Bryan one of the devices tentatively decided upon as a means of stimulating the collection of subscriptions from the people.

It consists of a button bearing in its center a picture of the nominee.
At the top is the line: "I gave my dollar." At the bottom is this: "Have you?" By the tens of thousands these buttons will be distributed about the country, to be disposed of by responsible agents.

Colonel Bryan has received urgent invitations to attend the Alabama state fair at Montgomery, October 19,
to make a speech, and also to be present at Readville, Mass., August 25, to witness the Derby there of the New England Trotting Horse Association.

Mr. Bryan expressed regret at his inability to accept either invitation.
He could not go to Massachusetts on that date because he is to be in Indianapolis to witness the notification of his running mate, John W. Kern, and make a speech on the trust question.

Chairman Clayton, upon leaving the Bryan home, expressed himself in a statement given out for publication as having been delighted with the large and enthusiastic attendance of the people on the notification.

"I have attended six notifications," he said, "and the ceremonies were the most orderly and enthusiastic I ever have witnessed. The people of Lincoln, irrespective of party affiliation, did everything possible to contribute to the attendance, the orderly procedure and the enthusiasm of the occasion."

SCOURING VICINITY

OF PENSACOLA, FLA., FOR NEGRO
ASSAULT OF YOUNG WHITE WOMAN.

Community Wrought Up to High Pitch of Excitement Which May Result in Lynching.

Pensacola, Fla., Aug. 14—The sheriff of this city, his deputies, and hundreds of armed citizens today are scouring this vicinity for George Crombs, negro, who assaulted Mrs.
Ed Mocklair, a young matron, four miles from Pensacola. The whole community is wrought up to a high pitch of excitement through this sequel to the recent assault on Mrs.
Davis, which proved fatal, and if Crombs is caught, a battle with the officers is feared, as the mob will surely make desperate attempts to lynch him.

UPRISING WAS NOT CRUSHED

Saigon, French Indo-China, Aug. 14.
—A Chinese uprising, which French authorities reported as crushed a few weeks ago, is again assuming most dangerous proportions. Brigandage and rebellion on land and piracy off the coast are gaining ground within the French sphere of influence in southeastern Asia, faster than ever increasing European military and naval force can suppress them.

Hamilton, Aug. 14—The trustees of Miami university today decided to immediately erect an $8000 Carnegie library. Frank L. Packard of Columbus, was chosen architect.

TURKISH MINISTER RECALLED

MUNDJI BEY FIKRI

MEHMET ALI BEY

Washington, Aug. 14—Announcement was made officially at the Turkish legation that Mehmed Ali Bey, Turkish minister to the United States, had been recalled. No reasons were given for the announcement and the Turkish minister did not discuss it in any way. From statements made at the embassy it appears that the notification of recall only reached the legation late yesterday evening.

Little surprise is felt in diplomatic circles here, as advices from abroad indicated the recall several days ago,
and it was believed on all sides that an announcement to that effect would shortly be made at the Turkish legation. The change in the Turkish ministry is considered solely responsible for the minister leaving Washington.
He was appointed under the old regime.

HATRED

Of Mother for Her Daughter Arouses
Rich Colony

WILL GIVE NO CAUSE

Friends Say it is a "Heritage of Hate" in Real Life

Girl Lives in Hope That Parent's
Love Will Some Day
Return.

New York, Aug. 14—Publication of the strange hatred of the rich and cultured Mrs. Egbert V. Strong of Babylon, L. I., for her daughter Marian today is convulsing the fashionable colonies at Babylon and along the bay shore. Not one word will Strong or his wife say as to its cause but neighbors who have known the woman all her life say that her daughter's fate of exile is but a duplication of her own.

"It is a sad-sad story," said Sherman Tweedie of Babylon, who is a friend of years, "and is beyond me except on the theory that the hatred
Mrs. Strong has for Marian is inherited. You know Mrs. Strong's own mother would have none of her when she was born. She made her husband take the child away when she was only 8 or 9 months old, but as the years went by, the present Mrs. Strong finally found her way back into her mother's heart."

"It is a 'heritage of hate' in real life," said Mrs. John Edwards, a relative of Mrs. Strong. Her mother put Mrs. Strong away when she was only an infant and the curse seems to be passing down the generations. Marian lives in the hope that her mother's hate will pass away. I never heard the girl speak of her except in terms of love.

AUTO VS. FLYER

Barney Oldfield Will Race "Red
Devil" Against Lake Shore 18
Hour Train.

Elkhart, Ind., Aug. 14—Barney Oldfield, the celebrated automobilist, is here preparing his "Red Devil" for his race against the Lake Shore 18-hour train, tomorrow. He will meet the train ten miles out of the city and race it to Elkhart. Along this stretch the road runs parallel to the Lake Shore tracks and is level. The train travels this stretch at a mile per minute.

BYRON CHANDLER, KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT NEAR BOULOGNE SUR MER

MR. AND MRS. BYRON CHANDLER. Photo by The Associated Press Co.

BOULOGNE SUR MER, Aug. 14—An automobile driven by Mr. Byron Chandler, of Boston, was upset near here. Mr. Chandler was killed and his chauffeur and two other persons were injured.

Boston, Aug. 14—Byron Chandler was born at Manchester, N. H., 29 years ago. He was the son of George Pyron Chandler, president of the Amoskeag bank, and owner of extensive timber lands. The banker was a state senator. When he died the fortune was divided by the widow, who survives, and by Byron and his brother Benjamin. Benjamin is now in England and the mother is at Manchester.

After coming into his money Byron

Chandler spent much time traveling abroad in princely style. He was sued for $30,000 by the mother of Miss Alice Booth, of Manchester, N. H. The suit was based on alleged breach of promise.

After Chandler's father died he bought an abandoned farm at North Reading, which he began to cultivate at great expense, transforming it into a model resort of country life.
Chandler, however, spent little time

there, as he was a most enthusiastic automobilist. He called the estate Red Hill and laid out golf links and tennis courts and hired an expert from an agricultural college to run the farm. Chandler was last seen here about the first of last May, when he sailed for Europe without his wife.
His escapades by automobile were exceedingly numerous and resulted in July, 1907, in the revocation of his license by the highway commissioners.

The arrest leaked out today, despite the efforts of the authorities to suppress it. The anarchists were armed with revolvers and daggers and were en route to Ischl. After a rigid sweeping by the police, during which the anarchists outwitted the officers in shrewdness, they were sent back to Italy. Owing to the rumor of the plot against the king, the frontier guards have been doubled.

SUING FOR DIVORCE.

New York, Aug. 14—Charging gross cruelty, beginning two weeks' after her marriage, Mrs. Minnie F. P. Heminway, once known in society in Battle Creek, Mich., and later as Minnie Ballantine, a vaudeville star, applied to Judge Pound in the Supreme court,
for temporary alimony of $100 a week

MRS. MINNIE HEMINWAY

and counsel fee of $250 pending her suit for separation from her husband, Lewis M. Heminway of Litchfield, Conn., and New York.

Herman Roth, of No. 1492 Broadway, who appeared as counsel to the plaintiff, described Mr. Heminway as "more than a millionaire." In the afdavit of Mrs. Heminway, the defendant was accused of having shot at his wife on two occasions and of having set fire to their home in Connecticut, shouting that he would burn her alive.

DEMOCRATS WILL OPEN CAMPAIGN AT MANSFIELD ON SATURDAY, SEPT. 26.

Columbus, O., Aug. 14—Mansfield was selected by the Democratic state executive committee as the place for holding the opening meeting of the campaign in Ohio.

The date for the meeting is Saturday, September 26, three weeks later than the Republican opening.

Chairman W. L. Finley and other leaders believe that a short, snappy campaign of oratory coming after the Republicans have exhausted themselves in presenting the issues will have the best results. Five weeks will thus be available for the speakers.

The matter of arranging for the invitation of speakers was left to Chairman Finley and the Mansfield committee. Judson Harmon and James E. Campbell, of course, will be on the program, but it has not yet been determined whether or not to invite some prominent Democrats from without the state, such as John W.

Kern, of Indiana, the nominee for vice president, to give the meeting a national aspect.

In the event that a purely state meeting is decided upon Timothy J.
Hogan, nominee for attorney general, and J. H. Newman, for secretary of state, will be placed on the program.

While the session was going on County Treasurer Meyers, of Akron, waited upon Hamilton C. Deweese, assistant secretary, and inquired concerning campaign speakers. He was informed that this branch of the work had not yet been taken up and was asked if he had any preference. "We would like to have William H. Taft," was the innocent rejoinder. "You know he made a fine speech in our town in 1905."

"Very sorry, but I understand by the Hot Springs dispatches that he will not speak in Ohio this year," was the equally clever answer.

FUNERAL HYMN OF THE PROSPERITY CONGRESS SOMEWHAT PREMATURE

New York, Aug. 14—The spectre of hard times was officially laid bare here today when speakers representing

350,000 traveling men of the United States opened the new "prosperity congress" in the Merchants' Association Auditorium. Heat kept many of the traveling men away, but enough were on hand to whoop it up in an impressive style for better times they say are near. While the traveling men were singing the dirge of hard times another convention was called on the east side which might have been taken to indicate that the funeral hymn was somewhat premature.

There at the national headquarters of the bureau of unemployed a group of about 1,500 men, ragged and hungry, gathered to point to the fact that there is still suffering and poverty.
They had intended to parade 10,000

idle men to the hall where the congress was in session, but were refused a permit and arrests ordered if the parade was attempted.

Geneva, Aug. 14—What the police assert was a plot to assassinate King Edward and Emperor Francis Joseph,
as the monarch conferred at Ischl
Wednesday, was frustrated by the arrest of two notorious Italian anarchists at the railway station at Langf,

MOTHER

Rescues Babe From
Eighteen Foot
Well

REMARKABLE HEROISM

Fastened Her Teeth in Child's Frock and Climbed to Top

Struggled Hand Over Hand and Faints Away When Top Is Reached.

Fulton, Mo., Aug. 14—Mrs. K. B.
Stephenson, a frail little woman, lowered herself into an 18-foot well and saved her two-year-old child from drowning, and climbed to the top holding the infant in her teeth by the dress. The babe was playing near the well top, which had been left open and fell off backward into four feet of water at the bottom.

Mrs. Stephenson heard the child's cry and turned in time to see it fall.
Rushing to the well, she grasped the rope, and, without a moment's hesitation, shot to the bottom. Her quick action enabled her to prevent the little one's death in the chilled water.
Holding the child in her arms, she called to the other children, who had followed her, to summon aid. The father of the child was not at home,
nor were there any male neighbors near by.

Fearing that she would be seized with cramps if she remained in the cold water, Mrs. Stephenson fastened her teeth in the baby's frock and climbed the wall which was lined with jagged rocks. When she reached the top she fell over in a dead faint.

She recovered before aid arrived,
and struggled into the house, clasping the babe to her breast.

The fall had stunned the child,
though, and this fact aided the mother, for had it struggled as Mrs. Stephenson struggled in her hand-overhead climb to the top she surely would have toppled backward to her death.

The well, which is sunk near the rear porch of the Stephenson home, is one common to Missouri farms. It is used as a cold-storage receptacle for produce of the farm.

HOT WAVE

PREDICTED BY THE WEATHER
BUREAU IN SPECIAL FORE-CAST TODAY.

Will Cross Central States Sunday and Monday—Lower Temperature to Follow.

Washington, Aug. 14—A great hot wave is predicted by the weather bureau in a special forecast issued today. It says: "Barometric disturbance will advance from the Rocky mountain district to the Atlantic coast from August 14 to 18, crossing the plains states Saturday, central valley and lake region Sunday and Monday and Atlantic states Monday and Tuesday, preceded by a rising temperature, attended by rains and followed by a period of lower temperature."

DIES IN DENTAL CHAIR.

Delaware, Aug. 14—As Dr. William Knight was extracting the 13th tooth from Simon Landacre, aged 70 years, his patient expired in the chair. The man had been given chloroform, but physicians who administered the anesthetic declared his death was due to a sudden attack of heart trouble.

TRIPLE FUNERAL

Of Wheeling Victims, Who Were Well Known in This City—Burial in One Grave.

Wheeling, W. Va., Aug. 14—Margaret, Mamie and Claire Gavin, victims of Tuesday morning's explosion and fire, were buried today in one grave. Three thousand persons attended the funeral. The mother of the girls pleaded with the physicians to be allowed to attend, but was unable to leave her bed.

Elinor's Afternoon Off.

By CECILY ALLEN.

Copyrighted, 1908, by Associated Literary Press.

It was the proud boast of Mr. and Mrs. James Regan that their flower-like daughter, Elinor, had never set foot in that plebeian vehicle, a trolley car.

To be sure, there had been a time when James Regan would have welcomed the chance to drive one of the good, old fashioned street cars, but these days belonged in the dark ages of Regan family history along with the momentous Sunday when that same flowerlike daughter had been christened plain Mary Ellen.

Today, thanks to a pocket of gold in the Sierras and a few lucky speculations made possible by those same glittering pockets, the fair Elinor had at her disposal a variety of private vehicles, from a tiny electric runabout to a sixty horsepower touring car, from a smart trap on their Long Island estate to a correctly equipped victoria for her daily drive in Central Park.

The men who were glad to ride beside the girl in motor car or trap were equally glad to acknowledge their friendship with the blunt, shrewd Irish capitalist, for though the Regans were counted among the newest of the newly rich, they were not of them.

A strain of royal blood had surely filtered through the dark ages of Regan family history, for both generations took to the newly found luxury as ducks had taken to the mudholes behind their cabin in the Sierras.

From the moment they had come east Elinor had been surrounded by irreproachable governesses, companions and chaperons. Her comings and goings had always been attended by chauffeur or footman or groom. And there had been times when, watching other girls flit fearlessly and unattended from ferry to trolley car, she had felt an odd twinge of envy.

Some things of life she had missed, and this something was vaguely represented by the trolleys in which she had never ridden, the city streets on which she never set foot unattended. Even more vague was her feeling that somehow her dotting father had not quite played fair with her about Reginald Schuyler.

It meant something, of course, to marry into one of the old Knickerbocker families. Schuyler always let her realize this fact. He allowed his blue blood, which showed little enough in his pallid face and deep ringed eyes, to do his wooing.

The other man—he was, like themselves, new as to wealth, fresh and vigorous in every vein—he might have been so different if given half a chance. Sometimes she wanted to give him the chance. Sometimes she wanted to please her father. And neither of the two men in the case nor her father dreamed of the vague unrest in the girl's heart.

All this to explain why Elinor Regan's eyes fairly danced when she stepped from the door of the ferry-house and reviewed the long line of public vehicles. Belden, the punctilious, was nowhere in sight.

Elinor's companion, Miss Greenleaf, was young, but keenly alive to her duties and very anxious to retain her pleasant and lucrative position.

"Something must have happened. I am sure I worded the telegram very carefully. Shall I call a hansom or an electric cab?"

Elinor shook her head. "I've heard you can get smallpox riding in public vehicles. Don't they use them for funerals and that sort of thing?"

She was watching her companion from the tail of her eye and wondering just how far she might go.

Miss Greenleaf looked worried. "Perhaps I had best telephone to the house."

"Oh, no," interrupted Elinor quickly. "We can reach home by trolley while they are sending down the car for us."

Miss Greenleaf hesitated—and was lost. A few seconds later she was swept, golf clubs and bags, into a cross-town car. It was crowded with suburban women bound for the shopping district. Elinor swung blithely from a strap and enjoyed Miss Greenleaf's discomfiture.

"If Mr. Regan ever hears of this," thought the worried companion. And just then they alighted to change cars. Evidently there was a delay far down the street, for the two women stood some minutes on the corner, and then Elinor spied a drug store whose windows were filled with garish advertisements, beyond which loomed a soda fountain. Miss Greenleaf never knew just how it happened, but she found herself, feebly protesting, before a mahogany topped table which a white coated boy mopped up with a damp cloth.

"Chocolate ice cream soda for both of us," was Elinor's calm order. "Now, don't scold, dear," she added to her companion. "Even our maids have an afternoon off. Why not their mistress? I'm having the time of my life."

The white coated lad studied his stunningly goateed customer with profound interest. Never before had a young woman asked him to put 5 cents' worth more of ice cream into her soda. Then she had asked her companion, now entering into the spirit of the thing, whether she would have more soda or more ice cream. She might spend 5 cents more!

"Gee," said the boy as he dipped out the extra cream, "they act like two kids on a lark!"

As they sallied forth once more Elinor clutched her companion's arm.

"Let's make an afternoon of it, Miss Greenleaf. I've never, never ridden in the subway—please."

Something in the girl's tones made Miss Greenleaf turn suddenly reckless. "We will, we will," and then she added under her breath, "if I lose my place for it."

In the subway Elinor turned a trifle serious. The noise, the confusion, the shouts of the guards, the crowding of the mob bound for a ball game, the dancing white points beyond the open windows—and this was how the girls who worked for their living rode back and forth each day. She thought of her trap and her runabout, her victoria and her touring car, and then she studied the faces of the women around her. A man had risen insistently on her entrance, and she had sunk behind a row of newspapers. But there were other women, older women, more plainly dressed women and more tired looking women, who swung from straps.

She leaned forward and peered around the screen of afternoon papers. Oh, that tired looking woman with gray hair and arms filled with bundles, who clutched desperately at a strap and swayed resignedly with the movement of the car! Elinor half rose in her place to offer the tired woman her seat, and then she sank back. Behind the screening newspaper directly in front of the tired woman she had caught sight of a face, a face she knew, Reginald Schuyler's.

And that man behind the paper was the real Reginald Schuyler, who could sit behind a paper while a tired woman swayed before him! Elinor did not reason consecutively or logically. She had simply a vague feeling that if ever she became less radiant, less charming than she was today Reginald Schuyler was not the man who would forgive her defects. Reginald Schuyler would be a delightful companion so long as no sacrifice was demanded of him.

It was a subdued Elinor who a few stations further along signaled to Miss Greenleaf that she had had enough of the subway. She slipped out of the car in dread fear that Schuyler might lay down his paper and see her.

Once more in the fresh air, she bade Miss Greenleaf hail a passing taxi-cab. Miss Greenleaf laid the girl's sudden quiet to the foul air in the subway and berated herself for yielding to her charge's nonsensical scheme.

That evening James Regan felt that never before had he fully appreciated his daughter's beauty and charm. She was so wondrous tender and womanly as they sat alone in his "den."

"Daddy," she whispered, her arms crossed on his knee, her face uplifted to his—"daddy," she repeated very softly, "if I were to ask you to buy the crown jewels of Patrovia or some other tiny kingdom for me to wear you'd get them, wouldn't you?"

Her father nodded and smiled down on her. "And if I wanted to buy a prince and a palace I could have them?"

Regan frowned. He hated monarchical institutions. Then he smiled and patted her head. "I guess, yes—sure," he said.

"Or a new sort of orchid—and you'd send to the heart of Africa for it?"

"Now, what are you driving at, Elinor, girl?" demanded her father, his shrewd eyes twinkling.

Elinor flushed beautifully and gripped both his hands in hers.

"Such a little thing, daddy—and it will cost you just 3 cents."

The old man turned serious. "Out with it, darling."

"I want—you—to telephone Jack Boardman to spend the week end with us at Grey Towers."

For a few seconds silence reigned in the high ceiled room. Then Regan laid his hand tenderly on her bright hair.

"Elinor, if you want that more than anything in the world!"

He hesitated, and the girl said softly, "More than anything in all the world, daddy."

The man flung back his shoulders and said firmly:

"Then I'll phone him now, before I change my mind."

For Jack Boardman was—the other man!

All There.

Old Lady Goodyear laid down the paper, with a sigh, and looked over her spectacles at Grandfather Goodyear.

"I feel quite ashamed when I remember our humble marriage notice," she said.

"Married in the First Congregation at church of Harborville, Abel Goodyear to Mary Lawton," chanted Grandfather Goodyear. "It read well, to my thinking."

"Yes, for those days, but not for present times," said his old wife. "You know Anastasia Cummings' daughter Laura married a Toby, and their daughter has just married Sophy Leavitt's grandson. His mother, Sophy's child, married a Wilson."

"Well, what of all that?" inquired Grandfather Goodyear, rubbing his forehead in great confusion of mind.

"It's the fashion to keep all the family names," said Old Lady Goodyear severely. "You hear how grand it sounds."

"Married, at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Frederick Cummings-Toby, by the Rev. Harold Lowden Kirkbright, Edith Smythe Cummings to George Broune Leavitt-Wilson."

"Now, there's something for old Grandpa Broune and Grandma Smythe to be proud of—if they were alive."

"M-m!" said Grandfather Goodyear. "Youth a Companion."

PERT PARAGRAPHS.

We are always willing to hurrah for the man who knows he can get there—after he has proved it.

One way to succeed is to get a stubborn man set in your direction and put him on the job.

On general principles we hate our enemies for the friends they have made.

The dollar that we haven't got is the most troublesome one.

The faith that labors sixteen hours a day is the kind that helps.

The bigger the ice bill the smaller the chunk.

Usually the only kind of assistance that is plentiful is the kind we don't need.

It often depends upon who is around whether a man is good company or not.

The less we see of some men's religion the more we believe in it.

One of the first requisites of a good husband is a wife that can cook.

The Stanch Friend.
In fishing for plums
And position and place
The candidate comes
With a smile on his face.
His manner is bland
As he sees you afar
And hustens to hand
You a low grade cigar.

How genial his phiz
As he grabs for your mitt
To show you who is
Or is going to be it.
You seem to have met
With a friend to adore,
On whom you can bet
Several dollars or more.

He pours in your ear,
If you will but stand
And patiently hear
His vociferous expand.
Some reasons that seem
Too good to be true
Why he would esteem
A ballot from you.

The candidate's smile
Is a picture urbane,
While compliments pile
In torrents like rain.
Downpouring and wet,
Your patience to tax
The while you can bet
He's grinding his ax.

Why She Couldn't.
In order to get even with a telephone girl who did not make her articulation clear and distinct the man went to the phone and, after calling up, mumbled purposely, calling for no particular number, but just asking for umpty, umpty, ump.

"Give me," he said in a muffled voice, "number umpty, umpty, ump, and be quick about it."

"What number?" asked the girl.

"Umpty, umpty, ump," said the man impatiently.

"Busy, sir," said the girl sweetly. "Call again."

Not So Much.
"Are your exercises benefiting you any?"

"Yes; I am getting a fine muscular development."

"Giving exhibitions to your friends?"

"Well, I picked up a fifty pound cake of ice left by the iceman this morning and swung it around as though it had been a feather."

Fluctuating Measure.
"He is having a peck of trouble."

"And in trouble how much is a peck?"

"Oh, a bushel and a half or so."

Had Seen Both.
"It was a case of love at first sight."

"Must have been in a dim light, though."

No Funds.
"Too bad such a fine poet has to go to work."

"Can't be draw on his imagination for money?"

Praise.
"Can she act?"

"Act?"

"Yes."

"Well, I should say so. It is perfectly shameful the way she acts."

Architectural Discernment.
"Will you walk into my parlor?"

Said the spider to the fly,
And meanwhile as he said it
He winked the other eye.

"I asked him for a waiter;
I might consent to ramble
Down through your bungalow."

Shifted the Breed.
He was a most abject man—
A most peculiar man.
I asked him for a waiter;
He brought a black and tan.

A CURE FOR FRECKLES.

Formula For a Lotion and Cream to Remove Them.

The woman who freckles easily and dreads the summer time is to be pitied.

Tan and sunburn are unsightly and painful, but after awhile they disappear. But not so with freckles. They will remain through the winter months unless something is done to remove them. This, as all know from experience, is much easier said than done. They are as stubborn to remove as a willful child when it is necessary to make him obey.

The following formula is said to be one of the best to remove them: Lard, five ounces, glycerin, two ounces; rosewater, one ounce.

Apply this lotion to the face several times during the day. Put a small portion in a dish and dip a soft linen rag into it and apply.

All skins will not stand the same treatment, and while some may use this lotion or other face lotions with no ill effect, others may suffer from a burning sensation of the skin.

To prevent this burning it will be better to massage the face after using the lotion with this elder flower cream: Almond oil, three ounces; white wax, five drams; spermaceti, five drams; lanolin, one ounce; witch hazel, one ounce; elder flower water, three ounces; oil of bitter almonds, one dram.

Massage the skin with this every night and one will be well repaid for the little trouble. The skin will become soft and supple and a dainty white. If the skin is inclined to be rough and dry, it will be beneficial.

This cream is not only good to use after the freckle lotion, but on any dry, ugly skin. It will take away the roughness and give the skin a delicate appearance.

A NEW INVENTION.

An Attractive Frame for Hanging Up Princess Gowns.

To make an attractive frame for hanging up princess gowns without musing them take a pasteboard mailing tube about twelve inches long by two inches in diameter and cover with a piece of Dresden ribbon two inches longer than the tube and wide enough to let the edges meet down the length. Sew the edges together, turn in one inch at each end and paste inside the edge of the tube with library paste. This leaves the ends open so that a yard of ribbon one inch wide may be passed through the tube and the ends tied together in a bow. Put the gown through the ribbon until the waist line is over the tube, the waist hanging on one side and the skirt on the other. This hanger may be used for a gown where tapes at the waist are impracticable.—Good Housekeeping.

FRAME ON WHICH TO HANG PRINCESS DRESSES.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

The outside of a trunk is not the only part that gets battered and unsightly, although there are no "interior" bag gage smashers. When the hinges and lining become torn and soiled they may be replaced at home. Strong tape, securely fastened with tacks, makes excellent inside hinges. Body and lid may be lined with moire wall paper, the edges neatly finished with passe partout binding. The paper should be put on with good wall paper paste and allowed to dry before the trunk is used.

The kind of polish is not always satisfactory with different kinds of woods, and for dark woods, especially rosewood and mahogany, a special preparation should be tried. Melt together gradually in a double saucepan two ounces of yellow wax, one ounce of alkane root and half a pint of boiled linseed oil. Strain and when cool mix with a gill of turpentine and one of vinegar.

Tansy is an effective old fashioned whitener for clothes. Place the green leaves in a thin bag and steep for a time in boiling water to which chopped soap has been added. Remove the tansy from the boiler before adding the clothes. Place the clothes in the boiling water, cover and leave to steam, but not boil, for a full half hour. Wash in a second suds, rinse thoroughly and hang while rather wet.

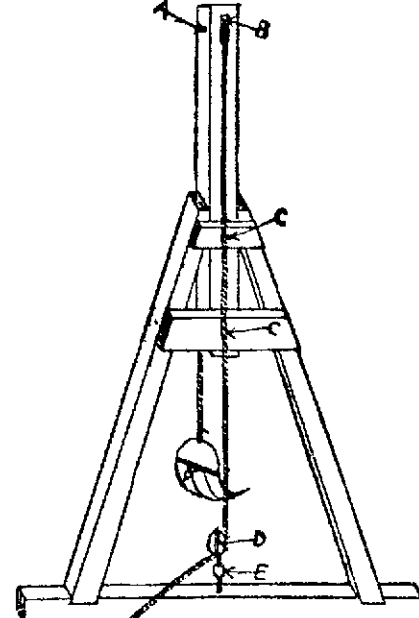

The lingerie blouses when they have served their original purpose can be cut down to form corset covers, their embroidery or lace trimmings making them more than usually decorative.

Farm and Garden

LABOR SAVING DEVICES.

Machines That Simplify Two Common Forms of Farm Work.

A portable hay stacker or derrick for stacking hay in the field, such as shown in the illustration herewith, will be found not only very handy, but easy to construct and it will do the work in as satisfactory a manner as one of the most expensive hay stackers. The mast and the two side braces are 4 by 4 inches square. The sill may be the same, but will be better if made of a 4 by 6 inch stick. The bolt A holds the guide or sheave wheel in place, as shown at B. The two bolts CC hold the mast in place and are removed when moving the derrick. However, if same is only moved a short distance it will not be necessary to remove the mast. Simply hitch a horse to the sill and drag the entire derrick where wanted. D is the snatch block for lower end of hoisting rope and E the eyebolt, to which the block D is made fast with a short rope. A sling may be passed around the sill in place of the eyebolt E if necessary.

The sill should be from fourteen to sixteen feet long and the mast and two side braces from sixteen to twenty feet long. By boring several holes in the mast the same may be raised or lowered and made the proper height for both small and large stacks. The derrick should set at an angle of about forty-five degrees, leaning toward the stack, and have two guy wires or ropes at the rear and one in front.

The second illustration shows how a vegetable washer may be constructed. It will not only save much work on the farm, but will greatly assist in placing the vegetables on the market in better shape. The cut is really self explaining. The size of the device will depend on the amount of vegetables to be washed. A box being built, the cylinder is made by cutting two heads from one or two inch lumber. These are made fast to the shaft and placed in the box, an opening being made in which the vegetables are passed in, as shown at A, which is held in place with blocks and eyes.

The end of the shaft is bent to form a turning crank or handle. The cylinder

der heads are covered with heavy wire, lath or narrow strips of any lumber handy. The vegetables to be washed are placed in the cylinder and the box partly filled with water. The cylinder is then revolved by turning the crank. The mud will fall to the bottom of the box.

To clean the box the plug B is removed and water allowed to flow in until it runs clear.

A barrel may be used for the cylinder. This device will allow the operator to wash and clean a large amount of vegetables in a short time and without having the hands in the cold water.

Prairie Hay Crop.

The prairie hay crop in the western two-thirds of Kansas promises to be heavier this year than for many years past. Prairie hay properly cured and taken care of has a feeding value greater than any other hay produced in this section except alfalfa or clover. Usually the grass is not cut as early as it should be. Prairie grass should be cut early to make the best feed.

The first of August is none too early to begin haying. Prairie hay is also, as a rule, not as well stacked as it should be, and the percentage of loss on account of stacking is large. More prairie hay is fed to horses in the cities of the country than any other hay. Each year the value of bright, early cut hay is increasing. Poor prairie hay is of slow sale. This fact only serves to demonstrate that the feeding value of late cut and blackened prairie hay is not so great, and feeders will not pay as much money for it as for the bright hay. Hundreds of acres of Kansas land are set aside for the production of native prairie grass hay. To realize the greatest profits, either for feeding or through sales, it should be properly cared for.

CARE OF PETS.

How to Keep Household Pets Well by Proper Attention.

There is no time in the year when animals need so much care as in the summer. Then they must not only be kept clean, but must be fed and watered properly, for on this depends their health.

Dogs should be given little or no meat during the warm weather, and water should be kept where they can get it at any time. Dog biscuits are the best form of food for them. Milk and oatmeal are also good. A bone with very little meat on it may be given for them to chew, but it is better to let the biscuits take its place. Dogs should be washed at least once a week to keep them in good condition. A soap containing tar is best for the purpose.

Cats should be fed mainly on milk and mush, and, strange to say, they are very fond of some vegetables. Corn on the cob does not hurt them, and a great many like it very much. There have even been cats that liked cantaloupe. These animals also should have water where they may get it, and some cats may be washed with good results—to the cat—although it is a very dangerous operation for the unfortunate person who is detailed to perform the feat. Some cool place should be provided for them to sleep, but the cellar is not always good, for it is too damp.

Dogs should not be allowed to sleep in the house, particularly in summer. The stable is the best place, or, lacking that, the dog kennel would be all right.

Canaries should be provided with a daily bath. Drinking water should be kept in their cages at all times. Lettuce leaves, celery tops and chickweed should be provided for them about twice a week, and a bit of red pepper will do them no harm. Cuttlefish, of course, is always kept in the cage, which should be lined with gravel. Hemp seed is very fattening and should not be given to the birds very often. They should be fed on bird seed and rape seed, with a lump of sugar as an occasional treat.

How to Wash Veils.

If your white veil is very much soiled it will not be a difficult matter to bring it back to its original whiteness. Make a strong lather of white soap and immerse the veil in it for about a quarter of an hour. Rinse it in cold water carefully with a little liquid bluing. You can also add perfume to this water. Pass the veil through a thin gum arabic water, or water in which rice has been boiled, and clear it by shaking. Pin evenly on a linen cloth. When dry, lay between a piece of thin muslin and iron on wrong side. To wash your black veil pass it through hot water in which a small quantity of ox gall has been mixed, together with some perfume. Squeeze but do not rub it. Rinse in cold water, putting bluing in the last rinse. Stiffen by dipping in a very thin glue water made by pouring water on glue. Squeeze and shake out and dry and iron on the wrong side, the same as the white veil.

How to Clean Black Goods.

To clean black cloth garments buy 5 cents' worth of borax and 10 cents' worth of camphor gum. Put them into a large bowl, breaking the camphor gum first into small pieces. Pour over this one quart of boiling water, stirring to dissolve the borax. All the camphor will not dissolve. After it is cool put it into a bottle and cork tightly, says the Delineator. When wishing to use it pour a portion into a basin, diluting it with half the quantity of cold water. Wet a black stocking with this and sponge your goods, pressing afterward. This will remove all spots and grease and restore the black.

How to Clean Gloves.

In the country good thick gloves, with stitched backs, long wristed, are the most comfortable to wear. White suede and kindred gloves are best restored to their pristine freshness with a mixture of powdered alum and fuller's earth applied with a dry brush and well rubbed in till the dirt is removed. Silk gloves can be cleaned with magnesia placed between two layers of paper, and in a few days, when the powder is removed, they will look like new. Gloves should be laid by in brown paper. White paper often discolors them through the materials used in making the paper.

How to Make Excellent Paste.

To make a fine paste take two ounces of pulverized gum arabic, one and one-half ounces of fine starch and one-half ounce of granulated sugar. Dissolve the gum arabic in as much water as you would use for the starch indicated. Mix the starch and sugar with the mucilage. Then cook the mixture in a double boiler until the starch becomes clear. It should be as thick as tar. It can be kept indefinitely by the addition of a teaspoonful of camphor or a few drops of oil of cloves.

How to Make Almond Milk.

Almond milk is made by blanching sixty almonds and putting them into a mortar with two lumps of sugar. The latter causes the oils to blend. By very slow degrees a pint of rosewater is then added, the nuts being broken at the same time by pounding until the oils are reduced to powder and all the rose water is in. This may stand bottled overnight and is then strained. It is one of the best lotions and bleaches there is.

How to Relieve Ivy Poisoning.

Orange juice is a simple remedy for ivy poisoning. Bathe the afflicted part of the body. The itching and burning will cease, and in a few days the skin peels without any further spreading.

Test It In The Tub.

That is the way to find out how good P. & G. Naphtha Soap is.

If it doesn't do better work than the soap you now use, don't buy it again.

If it does you will have made a DISCOVERY.

In any event, the experience will cost you only five cents.

It is worth the price.

But, before you use a cake of P. & G. Naphtha Soap, read the directions on the inside of the wrapper. They are very simple, very easy to understand, very easy to comply with. They tell you how to do your washing in a way that saves time, trouble, fuel and clothes and give better results than are otherwise possible.

A cake of P. & G. Naphtha Soap is ample for an ordinary sized washing.

He had no sooner cleared the ground than the big bag began plunging about like an ocean ship in a gale. Finally the aeronaut threw his drag ropeboard as a signal to the army trial board that the flight would have to be abandoned. Baldwin ascribes his failure entirely to the wind, which was very strong.

London, Aug. 14.—While certain well meaning friends of Signor Enrico Caruso, the noted Italian tenor, thought to relieve him from embarrassment by volunteering a denial that his wife had fled with an affinity from her beautiful villa near Florence Enrico himself today not only admitted the truth of the report but expressed his entire satisfaction at the proceedings. He declared that incompatibility of temper had made it impossible for him and his wife to live together.

Gauging the progress of the nation, not by the happiness or wealth or refinement of a few but "by the prosperity and advancement of the average man," the Democratic party charges the Republican party with being the promoter of present abuses, the opponent of necessary remedies, and the only bulwark of private monopoly. The Democratic party affirms that in this campaign it is the only party, having a prospect of success, which stands for justice in government and for equity in the division of the fruits of industry.—Bryan's acceptance.

Our platform declares that the overshadowing issue which manifests itself in all the questions now under discussion is, "Shall the people rule?" No matter which way we turn; no matter to what subject we address ourselves, the same question confronts us: Shall the people control their own government and use that government for the protection of their rights and for the promotion of their welfare, or shall the representatives of predatory wealth prey upon a defenseless public, while the offenders secure immunity from subservient officials, whom they raise to power by unscrupulous methods? This is the issue raised by the "known abuses" to which Mr. Taft refers.—Bryan's acceptance.

The rank and file of New York Republicans are demanding the renomination of Gov. Hughes, but up to date Roosevelt has not consented. The President seems as determined to dictate whom the New York Republicans shall nominate for governor as he was to dictate the nomination of Taft for president.

The Glass Bottle Blowers' Association at their annual convention just held recommended their fellow members to vote the Democratic ticket. Heretofore that association has had Republican leanings on account of the high tariff protection to the glass industry.

Empty dinner pails and half full ones is the best the Republicans can boast of this campaign. Republican boasts of being prosperity producers will hardly satisfy labor under these circumstances.

The Youngstown opening may be real interesting, if the plans of Foraker's followers do not miscarry. They propose to have the senior senator drop into the little bug and then when the campaign is being opened they will make a call for him to deliver an address. That bunch is liable to start something if the steam roller is not brought into play against them.

There is nothing surprising in the fact that Bryan should receive good news from all parts of the country. All news is good news for the Democrats these days.

The Republican papers of Pittsburgh have been talking about "prosperity" and "good times" to such an extent that the same papers are now bewailing the fact that their own headlines attracted to that city thousands of

COUNT DISCUSSES JAPAN'S POSITION.

Tokio, Aug. 14.—Count Okuma contributes a series of articles to the Hochi discussing Japan's world position. In one of them he says: "We do not know what the meaning of what the expansion of the American navy is, but from the speeches of Mr. Roosevelt we gather that it is aimed against Japan. America is striving to control the Pacific. I do not dare to say that the sending of the Pacific squadrons into the East means the expulsion of the Japanese, but there is no doubt that the latter is the chief motive for America's action. The rise of Japan has caused America to entertain the intention to acquire control of the Pacific. America's Pacific coast is unprotected, hence America is very nervous about the new rising nation, which is thought to be an invading race. They thought Japan would usurp the markets of China, and drive Americans and Europeans from Asia. American public opinion regards Japan as America's rival, and therefore, a powerful navy must be constructed against the Rising Sun, but I doubt if this policy against Japan will continue, since the American government follows public opinion, which is likely to change with a better light on the real attitude of Japan."

"FOR HE'S A JOLLY GOOD FELLOW."—After Keppler's Cartoon in Puck. By Permission.

HIGHER FREIGHT RATES.

Tribute to the Steel Trust Renders Advance Necessary.

The proposed increase in freight rates is causing very sharp discussion, but one phase of the subject seems to have been overlooked. It is said that without an advance in rates net earnings are and will be insufficient to maintain dividends. This deficiency in net earnings could not have existed if the railroads had not paid to the iron and steel monopoly unreasonable prices for rails and other supplies.

Although it is admitted on all sides that iron and steel can be made in the United States at less cost than anywhere else in the world, the duty on steel rails is $7.84 per ton. That the price is kept up to the limit permitted by the foreign cost plus the tariff is shown by the fact that many foreign rails are imported and sold. In the fiscal year 1907-8 4,610 tons were brought in, chiefly at New York and Baltimore. For the same year the United States statistical bureau gives the domestic production of rails as 3,977,887 tons and the domestic consumption as 3,691,173. If the tariff graft exacted by the steel trust from the railroads that used these rails was only $7.84 per ton, the amount of duty, then the loss of railway net earnings on this account alone was nearly $20,000,000, but $7.84 is undoubtedly much less than the steel trust velvet over and above a reasonable competitive price.

There has been no reduction in the price of rails since the October panic, although prices have been cut in most other lines. The railroads also use many other iron and steel products besides rails. If the railway managers paid only fair prices for iron and steel, they would now have no need either to raise freight rates or to reduce wages. Why do they not attack the tariff graft of the steel combination instead of imposing additional burdens upon shippers and consumers?

WAYS OF THE TRUST.

Monster Steel Corporation Still Absorbing Competitors.

The way in which the steel trust is gradually getting a complete monopoly of iron and steel and their manufactured products is shown by recent dispatches from Pittsburgh. The Schoen Steel Trust company, having a plant covering twenty-one acres near Pittsburgh and making car wheels at the rate of 800 per day, has been bought out by the trust at a price of $3,000,000, which is said to be $1,000,000 in excess of the cost of the plant. Car and locomotive wheels are "protected" at the rate of 1 1/2 cents per pound, which amounted to an import tax of about 33 per cent on their value in 1907, although there is no denial by any one that car wheels, like other steel products, can be made cheaper here than in any other country. The tariff graft in the production of these wheels is worth a cool million to Mr. Schoen, besides what he has already realized from the business, but it must be worth more than a million to the steel trust for future use, else it would not pay that amount in addition to the real value of the plant. This illustrates the methods of all the trusts. What competitors they cannot freeze out or drive out they buy out at any price, and it pays them to do so long as the people are foolish enough to let them exclude foreign competition and charge monopoly prices in this country.

HOUSEWIVES TAKE NOTICE.

The Cost of Canning Fruit and Vegetables Greatly Increased.

This is the time of year known to the housekeeper as "canning time." Fruits and vegetables are put up for future use, and a strong pull is made on the family exchequer to supply the sugar and the glass or tin cans in which articles are preserved. It may be well, therefore, to remind those interested—and if we include those who buy canned articles as well as those who themselves do the canning this will comprise pretty nearly every one—that the cost of canned fruit and vegetables is affected enormously by the tariff taxes on sugar, tin and glass.

In the year ending June 30, 1907, 4,835,615,549 pounds of sugar were entered for the payment of import duty. In spite of protection to the sugar raising industry in the United States, the domestic production was less than 22 per cent of the total amount consumed. The average tariff tax on sugar was 65.49 per cent, yielding to the government a revenue of $60,135,181.

But greater yet was the tax paid by consumers of sugar to the refining interests known as the sugar trust. Little refined sugar was imported, less than fifteen one-hundredths of 1 per cent of the revenue being obtained from that source. The trust gets its revenue from consumers by means of "differentials" in the sugar duties, taxing refined grades much heavier than unrefined and enabling the trust to charge for refined sugar much more than the cost of raw sugar plus a reasonable charge for refining. When the government gets $60,000,000 it is a safe estimate that the trust gets about $75,000,000 through the tariff. The people might save this graft that goes to the trust by abolishing the differentials. They could also reduce the duties on raw sugar without serious injury to the sugar producing localities. The reduced price would largely increase the consumption of sugar in the United States and so might not result in any loss of revenue to the government.

Glass jars suitable for canning fruit were in 1907 taxed at rates of duty from 40 to 60 per cent. Tin plates from which cans are made were taxed at an average rate of 45.61 per cent, while manufactured cans bore a duty of 45 per cent. These oppressive taxes on the materials used by the housewife at canning time add much to the cost of the canned product. They also add to the cost of operating canning factories and in many places prevent the establishment of such factories. Farmers frequently let their fruit and vegetables go to waste because there is no factory to which they can be taken or because, with high prices for sugar and cans, they cannot be canned at a profit. With canning materials untaxed and with the better market for produce that would follow the starting of numerous factories, many a farm now worth but $10 or $15 per acre might be worth $20 or $25.

Worst Panic Since the War.

This year the party of prosperity has the worst financial panic since the war to explain.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

And the explanation is going to bother those who have been preaching the gospel of high protection, who have claimed standpatism to be a sure recipe for prosperity. They are caught "with the goods" this time. The less said the better.

AERO CLUB OF COLUMBUS

MAKING GREAT PREPARATIONS FOR INTERNATIONAL BALLOON RACE.

Big Event Will be Held at Driving Park and Air Monsters Will Arrive.

Columbus, Aug. 14—What promises to be the most widely discussed and important event of a semi-sporting character ever attempted in Ohio will be the international ballooning championship race for a magnificent trophy to be held at Columbus on Saturday, August 29. The affair is to be held under the auspices of the Columbus Aero club, an organization composed of some of the most prominent business and professional men of the capital city, the officers of which are C. M. Nichols, president; W. B. Emerson, vice president; Norman O. Aebly, secretary; Herman Hoster, treasurer, and Thomas E. Curtin, chairman contest committee. The board of trade of Columbus has contributed the trophy and from the manner in which the event is being exploited it is likely to attract thousands of people from every part of the state.

The great interest now being manifested in aeronautics is evidenced by the newspaper space recent experiments have commanded and from the gigantic and spectacular achievement of Count Zeppelin in Germany to the tiny flights of fair ground parachute jumpers, the sport and scientific pages of the daily papers have chronicled practically every movement in the air of the adventurers.

The Columbus meeting will probably attract ten or more celebrated balloons, piloted by men whose names have come to be known wherever aeronautics are discussed. These aerial monsters will ascend at intervals of about ten minutes from the Columbus Driving Park on the day of the race and the trophy will be awarded to the craft that covers the greatest distance, air line measurement.

It will be remembered that the contest for the James Gordon Bennett trophy was held at St. Louis last October, in which balloons were entered from half a dozen countries, and the German balloon, Pommern won, with a record flight of 887 miles. At the meeting held in Chicago on the fourth of July, nine balloons competed for the Bion J. Arnold trophy, which was won by the Fiedling San Antonio, which covered a distance of 808 miles, landing near Montreal. These are the longest flights of which there are authentic records. It is hoped by the promoters of the Columbus meeting that westward air currents will be encountered, in which case all records are likely to be shattered. Officials of the United States weather bureau declare that the time set for this race is most propitious, for at that season the weather is usually more settled and the air currents steadier than at any other time of the year.

Preparations are being made at Columbus to comfortably accommodate the enormous crowd that will surely be in attendance. Profiting by the experience of the Aero clubs of St. Louis and Chicago, where hundreds of thousands of people swarmed about the enclosure, and into the arena reserved for the balloons, the Driving Park has been engaged, and a large force of police and soldiery will preserve order, while the handsome grand stand and large grounds of the park will afford those who pay the small admission fee comfortable and pleasant points of vantage from which to view the preparations and start of this remarkable contest.

BALLOON EXPLODES

BELONGING TO CAPTAIN LOVE, LACE, AMERICAN AERONAUT, ON EXHIBITION GROUNDS.

Two Killed, Three Fatally Hurt, Score Burned and Fifty Injured in the Panic.

London, Aug. 14—In a terrible explosion of the huge balloon of Capt. Love, American aeronaut, at the France-British exhibition grounds today, the earth was rocked as by an earthquake, two persons were killed outright, including Miss Blanche Hill, the captain's secretary, three fatally hurt, and a score seriously burned in a mass of flames that shot from the torn gas bag, and 50 were injured in a panic that followed the explosion, which was caused by a spectator lighting a match near the balloon, while it was being inflated.

FIRE AT INDUSTRIAL HOME.
Delaware, Aug. 14—Fire in cottage No. 3 at the Girls' Industrial Home, estimated at $1200, the entire roof of the building being destroyed. The building was saved only by the heroic work of the employees and the girls of the institution, they forming a bucket brigade, and assisting the fire fighters.

BADLY INJURED IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

MRS. CLIFFORD HARRIS THROWN AGAINST TOP OF AUTO WHEN IT HIT RUT.

Severely Cut About Head, but Rides Fifteen Miles to Physician's Office.

Thrown with great force against the side and top of an automobile by a rut that they struck in the road, Mrs. Clifford Harris, 151 Granyville street, was terribly injured last night while returning from Columbus with Mr. and Mrs. George Bader.

The party were running at a fair rate of speed, and when near Granyville the machine struck a rut in the road with such force that Mrs. Harris was hurled against the top. A long gash that went to the skull was cut in her forehead, her nose was broken and lacerated, two of her front teeth were knocked out, and her right cheek was badly cut and torn.

Displaying great fortitude, Mrs. Harris refused to stop in Pataskala to have her injuries attended to, and insisted on coming to Newark, where she went to the office of Dr. Chas. H. Stimson. The trip from Pataskala to Newark was made in remarkable time, and for nearly the entire distance the high speed lever was on.

Though losing a quantity of blood from her hurts, Mrs. Harris did not faint, and showed remarkable nerve while on the trip. Upon the arrival at the office the injured woman was given an anesthetic and the wounds dressed. Over 25 stitches were taken in the nose alone and for an hour Mrs. Harris was in the surgeon's hands.

She was taken to her home on Granyville street and this morning was resting as well as can be expected.

KILLED BY THE BURSTING OF EMERY WHEEL

Vangele Dumitri Meets Instantaneous Death, When Skull is Crushed in Like Egg Shell.

Vangele Dumitri, aged 22 years, a Turk employed in the grinding room of the Wehrle foundry, was instantly killed this morning about 11 o'clock by the bursting of an emery wheel where he was employed grinding castings. A large chunk of the wheel struck the man in the forehead crushing the skull like an egg shell.

No one witnessed the accident and the details are difficult to obtain. There is no indication that the wheel had any defect which might have caused the accident. He was working where he had been employed for some time and without warning the rapidly revolving wheel burst.

Pieces of the wheel flew in all directions. One of the largest hit the unfortunate man full in the head, just above the eyes, crushing the bone and making a ghastly wound. Dumitri never knew what struck him. Death was instantaneous and before anyone could reach his side he gasped and died.

A call was sent for the ambulance of Criss Brothers & Jones and a remarkably quick run was made to the stove foundry. The body was removed at once to the morgue of the undertakers where it was prepared for burial.

Dumitri was at native of Monastir, Turkey, and has one brother living in this city, who visited the undertaking rooms soon after the accident and identified the body and gave instructions for the funeral.

The dead man worked at the foundry under the name of Mike Papa, being shorter than his real name and easier to pronounce. For this reason it was some time before the real identity of the man was ascertained.

At about the time the accident occurred, an Advocate reporter had just finished writing an item about the low death rate in the city and had appended to the story a paragraph in which reference was made to the remarkably few ambulance runs in the city since the first of the month. The item finished, the "copy" was removed from the type writer and was being taken to the city editor's desk when the ambulance dashed past the office en route to the Wehrle foundry, in response to the call in the above mentioned accident.

FINDS BROTHER ALIVE.

Piqua, Aug. 14—William Kehoe of Detroit came to Piqua today to seek his brother James, first reported as having been killed in the Western Ohio traction wreck. He found that it was James Kehoe of Dayton. The Dayton and Detroit men both bore the same name and the first message sent out listed the dead man as from Detroit.

RECOMMENDS DISMISSAL.

Canal Dover, Aug. 14—The county board of visitors has recommended that Miss Armour, matron at the Tuscarawas county Children's Home, be dismissed. Miss Armour was charged with having whipped Clarence Lafferty, a four year old boy, leaving marks on his body.

Money-Making Ways of Using Want Ads

To Buy or Sell a Picture or Painting

It is in the easy reach of anybody to have copies of the work of masters—at a trifling price. But the frames cost so much! Here is a suggestion: place a little Want Ad in this paper under the heading, "Pictures and Paintings," stating that you want to Buy or Sell certain pictures. There are many people who get tired of the same pictures in their home if they are of the inexpensive kind, and will be glad to Sell for little money if their attention is called to the fact. Perhaps you have Pictures in your home you would like to Sell, then take the money and get new ones. Many people Buy and Sell expensive Paintings this way—pick up Bargains. It certainly is economical. A Want Ad costs but a few cents—and the price is the same to everybody.

EXAMPLES

(By L. S. Galvin.)

Lima, Aug. 14.—The locals redeemed themselves here yesterday in the opening game of the series with Newark for the overwhelming defeat administered by Mansfield, the preceding day. The visitors had their line-up shaken up a trifle with Manager Ellis on first and McCann behind the bat, Winters having taken ill just before the game was called. Kaler went in the box for the visitors and the big fellow kept the Lima hitters guessing most of the time, but they managed to bunch a few up on him in the fourth and eighth innings. Pickett, did the twirling for the locals, and in the fourth, with two singles and a three bagger against him, things looked a little blue, but the fielders got into the game and two men were retired at the plate. Writen scoring on Locke's three base hit to the right field fence.

Captain Jackson made his first appearance on the local diamond, and although he did not have any chances in the field, he won the hearts of the fans by making a clean three base hit and followed up later during the game with a single. A feature of the game to the local fans was Nefau playing first, substituting for Sykes, who is laid up with an injured foot. Nefau played a star fielding game, secured two hits and showed more speed on bases than any one in Lima imagined he could.

Umpire McNamara officiated and it was his first appearance here. It was difficult to determine whether he was nervous over his first appearance or because he could not do better, for his decisions were pronounced rank by the fans present. With neither side having the best of it, but each side being the victim of many rank ones.

In the first Pinkney, the first man up, hit safe to right. Writen sacrificed on a bunt to Nefau, Fink flew out to Nefau, Fink flew out to Foutz, Nefau and Newham were each retired on grounders. McClintock to Bells and E. Reilly struck out. No runs.

In the second, Smith struck out, McClintock was retired, Lindsay to Nefau, McCann flew out to Foutz. Nefau and Newham were each retired on grounders. McClintock to Bells and E. Reilly struck out. No runs.

In the third, Ellis went out on a grounder. Newham to Nefau, Kaler on one Pickett to Nefau, and Pinkney on one Lindsay to Nefau. Pickett was retired on a poke McClintock to Ellis, Fink flew out to Smith. A. Reilly on a grounder, Kaler to Ellis. No runs.

In the fourth, Writen hit safe to left. Abbott hit safe to right. Locke hit to right for three bases, Writen scoring and Abbott being thrown out at the plate. Foutz to Fink to E. Reilly, Smith bunted and Pickett threw Locke out at the plate. Smith was caught trying to steal second. Jackson hit to center for three bases, Foutz and Lindsay struck out, Jackson scoring on a passed ball by McCann; Nefau hit safe to left and Newham flew out to Smith. Newark 1, Lima 1.

In the fifth, McClintock and Ellis struck out, and McCann flew out to A. Reilly. E. Reilly flew out to McClintock, Pickett struck out and Fink was retired on a poke, Pinkney to Ellis. No runs.

In the sixth, Writen was retired on a grounder, Newham to Nefau, Pinkney hit one to Lindsay too hot to hand. Writen reached first on Lindsay's error. Abbott flew out to Jackson, and Locke went out on a bunt. Pickett to Nefau. A. Reilly flew out to Smith. Jackson hit safe to left. Foutz and Lindsay struck out. No runs.

In the seventh, Smith was retired on a grounder. Fink to Nefau, McClintock hit safe to third but was caught stealing second, McCann hit safe to right. Newham fouled out to McCann. E. Reilly struck out, and Pickett flew out to McClintock. No runs.

In the eighth, Kaler hit safe to left and was caught at second on Pinkney's bunt in front of the plate. Writen flew out to Fink and Abbott to Nefau. Fink hit safe to center. A. Reilly beat out a bunt to first, Jackson was retired on a grounder. McClintock to Bells. Foutz hit safe to first, scoring Fink, and A. Reilly was sacrificed home by Lindsay. Nefau striking out. Newark 6, Lima 2.

In the ninth, Locke was retired on a grounder to Nefau. Smith hit safe to left but was retired at second on McClintock's poke to Newham, McCann struck out. Score:

TIGERS TRIM LANKS.

Lancaster, Aug. 14.—The Lanks being unable to hit Lloyd at opportune times, lost the first game of the series to the Tigers by the score of 2 to 1. The visitors bunched hits. Mock's only base on balls resulted in a run. Lloyd kept his hits well scattered and had excellent support behind him.

THEY LIKE MOORE

Moore, the big right hander, who is built on the lines of Orval Overall, did the flinging stunt for the visitors. This was his first work out before a Portsmouth crowd, and every one was anxious to see the man that was good enough for the Phillie manager to pay $2250 for. Well, Moore looks good, all right. He has physique, steam, control and apparently everything that goes in the making of a good pitcher.—Portsmouth Blade.

"STAR BRAND SHOES ARE BETTER." STEPHAN'S DEPT. STORE.

"Lefty" Snyder's ankle is rapidly getting well and by Saturday he expects to be able to get it out of the cast and to walk without crutches. It is doubtful though that he will be able to play any more ball this season. His injury was a great blow to the team and to the fans, with whom Lefty is a great favorite.

JOTTINGS

Along the Dope Line From Over the Circuit—Masons Form Team and Order Uniforms.

Another game lost by a close margin! But at least the boys were playing base ball and the hard luck hoodoo still follows them. Maybe it will leave in time for the boys to climb a little higher in the race before the season closes. At least, here's hoping.

Harry Ruh, who has been playing a good game at short for the Portsmouth team, was badly injured in the second game the Molders played there Tuesday. He was hit on the wrist by a fast inshoot of Kaler's and his arm was broken. He will be unable to play the rest of the season.

"Red" Farrell, who jimmied his arm the other day, in trying to throw the "spitter," went with the team to Portsmouth and will be able to get back in the game soon.

The "Shoemakers" think they are lucky in hitching up to Bob Williams, who played with the Molders this season. Maybe they are, or at least we wish Williams luck and the "Shoemakers," also, for they have a good, scrappy team.

That man Pinkney is playing some ball right at the present time and the way he is eating them up is causing some comment in the towns he has been playing in. McClintock is also playing the game of his life at the present time and he is stinging the ball right along. Writen has been having it pretty easy in the fielding line, but his hits are coming right along.

The outlanders are pretty classy right now and Smith has shown that as an outer gardner he is right up among them. He pulled down three chances yesterday in nice shape. Abbott is covering the left side of the field all O. K. while Locke is hugging his chances and is rapidly gaining the reputation of being the heavy hitter of the bunch.

Gryll will shortly rejoin the team and the infield will then be as strong as any team in the league possesses. Where we have been weak all season is behind the bat, and that has been a thing noted by the fans and players all over the circuit. Winters, always a good heady catcher, is pegging now better than he has all season and McCann with a little training may develop rapidly. The directors have been shown conclusively though that a good catcher is an ab- solute thing and a good, heady man next year to alternate with Winters or whoever the second catcher may be, is an absolute necessity.

Kaler showed conclusively yesterday that he is a comer in every sense of the word. He worked against Pickett, who is regarded generally as the star twirler of the league, and showed up strong in the spot light. He struck out eight men when Pickett fanned five, and got through the game without walking a man. Besides getting one hit out of three times at bat. He also had three assists.

The organization of base ball teams by the Masonic and the Elk lodges here may be the means of a compact here next season. The players and their friends would get a great deal of pleasure out of a league of this kind, as all the players, who are mostly men who get little exercise, setting plenty of exercise that would be of great benefit to their health.

The base ball teams of the Masons is rapidly rounding to and when they go against the Elks team a week from today, they should be able to make a very exciting contest out of the game. Manager Davis is weeding the players out and is confident he

ROLLER POLO

Will be Played in Newark This Winter—Will be in Ohio State League.

Newark will be in a fast roller polo league this winter according to the statement of George Barker, former captain and first rush of the Coshocton team. Barker and Bobby Hart are after the franchise that Coshocton held in the Ohio State league and which is for sale at $300.

The team representing Coshocton last winter played a fast game but Barker thinks Newark would be a better one for the game, and for that reason he is busily engaged in getting a stock company together. So far everything is going satisfactorily and if the franchise can be secured from Frank L. Fuhr the game will be played in Newark this winter.

Going on the supposition that everything can be arranged, Barker has signed the long end of his team, and as it stands now the aggregation is a fast one. Hart, who is one of the star rushers of the Interstate league, will play first rush and Barker second; Tibbits, who is well known in the polo world, will play goal for Newark and Coshaw, another big leaguer will play half back. The center has not yet been secured for Barker wants the best there is to start the season with.

The league last winter was fast and composed of some good towns but this year the league managers want to place some of the teams in a little larger territory. The game is fast and exciting and is to the winter months what base ball is to the summer, so if the deal goes through the people of Newark will be treated to some mighty nice sport during the cold months.

MORE GOSSIP

While jubilating over the awful walloping the locals gave the Newark bunch, the fans should remember, that the Molders are badly crippled.

Locke's grounder to Ruh in the sixth was cleanly handled, but he beat it out for a hit.

Pinkney's drive in the fifth went through Mercer, Downing and Ruh for a hit. Either should have handled it.

Bachman, running for Ruh, went to sleep on second in the second and was nipped by a perfect throw from Winters.—Portsmouth Blade.

MORE BOUQUETS

Manager Harry Ellis was one of the most disgusted individuals ever seen when the game slipped out of the Molders' grasp. Ellis is a hard loser, and the manager who is not is not worth his salt to a team. If there are any of the fine points of the game that Ellis does not know, some one please tell about them. He has plenty of ginger with his knowledge, and the directors of the Newark team can rest assured that the managerial reins are in good hands. There never was a better behaved team that visited there than the Molders.

Pinkney is a tower of strength to the Molders. Not only is he a versatile ball player, but is never idle one minute, and is liable to pull off a trick that will make the other side look foolish. He tried one on Spencer, but it failed to go through and the sorrel top was given an extra base. Pinkney also is some pump-kin when it comes to hitting the ball, and is a good man to lead off.—Portsmouth Times.

TWENTY THOUSAND HONOR CY YOUNG

Boston, Aug. 14.—Nearly 20,000 persons from all over the New England states attended Thursday's benefit game for Denton Tecumseh (Cy) Young of Pauli, O., the Boston American League baseball team's veteran pitcher, at the American league grounds.

Three silver loving cups, a traveling bag and two big floral pieces were presented to Mr. Young. The largest city was given to Mr. Young by his many admirers through a local newspaper. Lieut. Gov. Draper made the presentation.

Manager Fielder Jones of the Chicago American club presented a large silver cup, given by the players of the American league. One other cup was presented by a friend and the traveling bag was given by the umpires of the American league. The Boston National League club gave a big floral offering.

The main attraction besides Cy himself was a game between Boston and a team of 16 players picked from the other American league clubs. It lasted 11 innings.

BARRED FROM LOT

Cleveland, O., Aug. 14.—James Delahanty, second baseman of the Washington American league baseball team, has been barred from the Cleveland baseball club's grounds, either as player or spectator, for one year, for language he used toward Umpire O'Laughlin in the Washington-Cleveland game at League park August 4. The Cleveland club protested to President Johnson.

Gossip of Stageland

The Orphium will open September 7 with a splendid bill. This popular play house is bound to draw the crowds the same as it has in the past.

John W. Vogel's minstrels has been booked for an early appearance in September by Manager Will D. Harris.

Rehearsals of "The Round Up," the big play of the plains, which opens August 31st at the Academy of Music, New York, are being held in the New Amsterdam Theatre. Maclyn Arbuckle, who returns to the role of the fat sheriff, had to leave his farm on the St. Lawrence river before he finished his new barn. This summer he has acquired a new wood lot and now feels that he is entitled to be enrolled in the "farmer vote."

"The Right of Way," which opens the Broadway Theatre, Brooklyn, has gone into rehearsal. Guy Standing, who spent the summer in Europe, has returned greatly refreshed. Theodore Roberts scored another great personal success in a Middle West summer production. "The Right of Way" will make a tour of the South in mid-season.

Paul Armstrong is after the services of Henry Reuterdahl, the marine artist, to design the scenes and costumes for the great naval play, "In Time of Peace." The play will go into rehearsal as soon as Klaw & Erlanger have "Ben Hur" and "The Round Up" fairly started on the road.

Arrangements have been made in Edinburgh for a double quartette of Scotch lassies to appear in "The Bonnie Belle of Scotland," in which Alice Lloyd is to appear. The new musical play is to have an early fall production. Miss Lloyd will return to the States next week.

Manager Will D. Harris has a splendid line of bookings for the forthcoming season and the theatre loving public will have an opportunity of seeing many of the standard attractions which will not appear in any but the larger cities.

Rex Beach, the novelist, whose latest success, "The Barrier," will be staged early this season, is in a local hospital in Seattle under the care of an eye specialist suffering from iritis.

Klaw & Erlanger have obtained an interest in the lease of the Chicago Opera House and in the future will book all of the attractions for that famous playhouse. The auditorium will be thoroughly renovated before its opening, September 7th. The first attraction under the new management will be the new Gillette play, "Ticcy."

Farewell concerts will be given under the auspices of the Irish members of Parliament at Covent Garden for Joseph O'Mara, the Irish tenor and dramatic singer, before he leaves London, at which Madame Melba and Plunkett Green will sing. Similar concerts will be given in Limerick, where he was born and where he made his first appearance as a boy, and in Cork, Dublin and America. Mr. O'Mara will tour America in "Peggy Macree."

Donald Gallaher will play the leading part in "A Mountain Boy," the new American drama by Pauline Phelys and Marion Short. Master Gallaher has played ten parts in his brief stage career of six years. He made his stage debut with Sol Smith Russell in "A Poor Relation."

Miss Albertina Benson has been engaged by Klaw & Erlanger for the part of the Fairy Queen in the big cartoon spectacle, "Little Nemo." Victor Herbert selected Miss Benson for her singing voice and Harry B. Smith the librettist, approved the composer's choice because of her stage presence and good looks. Miss Benson started in the chorus five years ago. She got her first part in "The Wizard of Oz."

Lillian Russell is back from London and Paris for the rehearsals of "Wildfire," the racing comedy with which will open the season at the Liberty theatre, New York City. Miss Russell says she went to Paris because Governor Hughes would not let her bet on the New York tracks. She intended to buy gowns abroad, but after looking over the models of the Parisian dressmakers she declared that American dressmakers now make better and prettier clothes than are made abroad. Miss Russell says the hats worn abroad are not as large as those in vogue in New York. Sheath gowns are not to be seen in Paris or London, but tight skirts are coming into style.

IDLEWILDE PARK.
Isabel C. Jackson and her peerless company of players are now playing at the Idlewilde park casino, and will remain all next week. Isabel C. Jackson is widely known for her beautiful singing, as well as for her dramatic ability. It is seldom, if ever, that the people of Newark are offered the pleasure of seeing plays of such high character and such a strong cast presenting them at popular prices, as are offered this and next week. Friday night "The Opera Singer" will be presented. Saturday night the great western play, "The Shadow of a Crime" will be the bill. Sunday matinee and night the great play "Zira." Vaudeville numbers of this excellent company are changed each night.

"I have been somewhat costive, but Doan's Regulets gave just the results desired. They act mildly and regulate the bowels perfectly."—George B. Krause, 26 Walnut Ave., Altoona, Pa.

FELL FROM HEAVEN

CREATING GREAT EXCITEMENT IN THAT SECTION.

While the Root Juice people were at Lima, Mr. O. P. Hirsh, said: "I drove sixteen miles this morning to get some more of that wonderful Root Juice. The remedy has done some wonderful things in my neighborhood and everybody is excited over the great good it is doing. If it had fallen from heaven I couldn't have any more confidence in it. I wouldn't take the finest farm in the state for what it has done for my wife. Before taking it, she was in bed, and every one thought her case hopeless. Even water would form and press up against her heart, until it would almost stop beating. Her tongue was badly coated, and she would complain of a bitter, then a sour taste in her mouth. Sometimes her bowels were too loose and at other times she was badly constipated. The doctors said that her stomach, liver and kidneys were badly diseased. She was reduced to a mere skeleton when I got her first bottle of Root Juice, but we feared she couldn't take it as no medicine we had tried, lately, would lay on her stomach, but the first dose of the juice seemed to soothe the stomach and do her good. She has used hardly two bottles, but is now out of bed and is rapidly gaining flesh, strength and health, under the marvelous Root Juice medicine." Here in Newark, reports similar to the above are coming in from every direction and as a consequence people are going in crowds to the City drug store to see the scientist or his wife and have a talk with them about the remarkable discovery that is creating so much newspaper comment throughout the country. It certainly is a great medicine or so many people would not be praising it so highly. Much is learned by having a talk with the instructors at the City drug store, and they prove all claims made for the great remedy. It is sold for one dollar a bottle, or three bottles for two dollars and a half.

WHEN SHOES PINCH.

How to Prevent the Trouble and Insure Comfort.

There are few people who do not know some time in the course of the year where the shoe pinches, and it is hardly too much to say that in nearly every case this is preventable and is produced by ignorance. Bathing the feet daily, cutting the nails and going now and then to the chiropodist prevent many ills, but there is more to be done in order to promote the good appearance of the feet and their absolute comfort. Special foot ills from which people suffer are corns, bunions and ingrowing nails. It is necessary to be very careful in the selection of stockings, as also in boots and shoes. It is no economy to have only one pair of shoes or boots in constant wear. Three is far more beneficial. It is not good for the feet to keep to one pair, and three pairs will last much longer worn in change than one pair after the other.

During the day many people go through various phases with their feet. They are often slightly swollen in the morning; then a loose shoe should be worn, the size being sufficiently ample to allow the feet to spread and have perfect ease, the heels being not above the moderate height. On going out it is advantageous to change both shoes and stockings. The feet perspire a good deal, and a fresh stocking is healthy and cleanly. It is best to use cold water for the feet in cold weather and warm water in hot weather, for the cold water hardens the feet and especially in towns prevents the pavements affecting them and wards off chills. A little spirit in the water to bathe the feet rests and strengthens them, and a little borax and a little ammonia in the water are very beneficial. Those who have to stand about all day should change their shoes in the middle of the day and before dinner because this both cools and airs the feet. The leather dries and gets ailed and well cleansed too. Exhaling pore of the feet and ankles is every where the leather absorbs, so that it is neither cleanly nor hygienic to keep too long to the same boots and shoes, and the leather, which is thus allowed to air and dry, lasts much longer. The reason why patent leather shoes are so unhealthy and often painful in the wearing is that they cannot be ventilated, so that the feet perspire more.

The spikes are very sensitive; hence in cold weather high boots or gaiters should be worn. If the feet are too dry and hard, the skin beneath thickening, cream rubbed in at night is especially beneficial. Those that perspire unduly should be treated by damping the stockings with a little alcohol and applying a little powder, such as boracic or talcum. Half of the foot troubles originate in improper footwear—too high heeled shoes, shoes and boots that are too short—and many an undue increase of the great toe joint is due to wearing shoes too loose over the instep, thereby allowing the feet to spread. Boots and shoes to fit should follow the actual outline of the feet, whether short or long, broad or narrow.

How to Clean a Sweater.

If you wish to wash a sweater make a suds of warm water, white soap and borax. Move the sweater up and down in the water until clean; then rinse in warm water, adding a little borax. In regard to drying, always tie the article (all in a bunch) in a towel or cloth, knotting the four corners; then pin it to a line out of doors, where the wind will blow through it. The towel should be opened from time to time and the article shaken, then replaced. When fairly dry the process may be completed in the house by laying, still in a heap, over the register or any place where it can get thoroughly dry. Pull into shape during the drying, and the garment will be found soft, fluffy and very little shrunken.

How to Make a Commode.

An empty packing box does not cost anything and makes a good commode or dressing stand if fixed in this way: Get a large packing box; turn same upside down; knock the board out of one side for the door; nail in wooden brackets and fit in a wide board for a shelf; then cover the top and sides of the box with black five cent lining, tacking in neatly around. Stretch a hair wire across the top of door and side on curtains of red cotton or any material desired; then hang up a large mirror, which will improve the looks of the stand.

How to Polish Cows' Horns.

To secure the fine luster on cows' horns when they are to be exhibited first scrape lightly with a piece of pumice stone until the surface is smooth. They are then polished by rubbing with a flannel rag and dusted with powdered pumice stone. Sometimes a little alcohol is rubbed over them to dry the surface of the horn so that it will take a good polish. The horns of some animals are so soft that it is impossible to give them high polish.

How to Remove Shiny Spots.

To remove shiny spots from black woolen garments place the garment, whether coat, trousers or dress, on an ironing board. Wring a cloth from warm water, spread carefully over the garment, then pass a hot flatiron back and forth just above the wet cloth as closely as you can without touching it. The nap will rise and the shine disappear.

How to Make Resisting Cement.

A cement which will resist the action of hot and cold water and which is most useful for mending coarse cracks and holes in iron and tin kettles and pans is made by mixing litharge and glycerin to the consistency of thick cream or putty.

AN ADMIRABLE SERVANT.

(Original.)

When on the 1st of July Henry Auchincloss left his business to spend his vacation with his mother, he was somewhat anxious as to how he should find her. The old lady had been struggling with the servant problem during the winter and reports had come to her son that she was on the verge of nervous prostration. What was his relief on his arrival to find the house in prime condition and his mother resting. This had been accomplished by a housemaid who had been engaged a fortnight before.

"Cornelia looked so respectable," said Mrs. Auchincloss, "that I hesitated about employing her. But she has kept her place, done her work splendidly and never has any company."

The son was delighted and resolved to give the new maid sundry tips by way of encouragement. She waited on the table, and at dinner on the evening of his arrival he looked her over carefully. She occupied herself, her hands and her eyes with her work, and so far as Henry could see was indifferent to all else.

"Mother," said Henry one day at dinner when speaking of the capital and labor question, "what was the name of the league organized in the eleventh century against the robber barons?"

Mrs. Auchincloss didn't know, and Henry was about to go to the library to hunt for information.

"I can give you the name of the league, Mr. Auchincloss," said the maid demurely.

Both mother and son looked up at her in astonishment.

"Well, what is it?" asked Henry.

"The Hansliatic."

There was a silence for some moments, when Henry looked at his mother and said, smiling: "Mother, does it require a cyclopedia to run this house?"

"What surprises me," replied the mother, "is that a cyclopedia can run it and run it so well. I supposed it required a domestic."

"What is your other name, Cornelia?" asked Henry.

"Yale."

"Are you the college of that name?" He spoke with a serio-comic tone and expression.

"I am not," said the girl, still maintaining her servant's demeanor.

"Very well, Miss Yale. I'll not permit one who knows more than I do to wait on me any longer. It is more fitting that I should wait on you."

"And must I lose my place?" asked the frightened girl.

"Not at all," said Mrs. Auchincloss. "Henry, be quiet!"

"Place! This is no place for you!" from Henry.

"I tried to keep my mouth shut," said Miss Yale lugubriously, "but when I saw you about to take trouble for information that I could give you I yielded. Now I have spoiled it all."

"You've spoiled nothing," said Mrs. Auchincloss. "Come, tell us what is this mystery."

"Not without joining us at table," said Henry, rising and drawing a chair for her. Miss Yale declined until Mrs. Auchincloss peremptorily ordered her to take the proffered seat.

"There is no mystery," said Cornelia. "I am simply a student of college. I had funds to carry me through my junior year, but no further. Hearing of the high wages paid to servants, I thought that field paid the best and chose it in order to raise money to help me through my senior year."

"And very wisely," remarked Mrs. Auchincloss.

"And if we hadn't got discussing the robber barons," said Henry, "you might have pulled through. But we are the worst sufferers. You have revolutionized this house and saved mother from collapse."

"It is all my fault," said the girl. "I should have kept still."

"It is no one's fault," said Mrs. Auchincloss. "Nor is there any necessity for your giving up your situation. You shall stay here, do you work as formerly, but your social position shall be that of a member of our family."

"That's not right," protested Mrs. Yale. "It involves a false principle. Servants should not be, cannot be, social equals with their masters and mistresses."

"Nothing prevents," Henry put in, "except inequality of refinement, and that you have."

"It is settled," added the mistress, "that you are to stay."

"Mother," said Henry, "I think it should be stipulated that no company shall be received in the kitchen except myself."

A laugh greeted this final sally, and the dinner was finished on the part of mother and son with the knowledge that a new and interesting member had been added to their family circle. Miss Yale remained nominally the servant and really did all the work. The kitchen was the nearest room in the house (as every kitchen should be) and was open to any of the family at any time. Henry spent much of his time there while the cook was making savory dishes. After the evening work was done there was usually a family discussion of some sort in the dining room.

When October came Miss Yale went back to college, but so attached was she to her mistress that she sent a sister to take her place. Miss Cornelia has just been graduated, and Mrs. Auchincloss is scheming for a match between her and Henry. She will have no difficulty in completing it.

SUNSHINE AND SMILES.

Genesis of the National Prosperity League—A "Con" Game.

Telephone talk between Stand Pat Trustwell and Senator Hottaire as heard in the room of the latter at the New Zillard hotel April 1, 1908:

BR-R-R-R—
Senator H.—Hello! That you, Stand Pat? How are you this morning? Been fooled yet? How's that? Goin' to fool somebody, eh? That's right; you know the game. Oh, yes, times are still bad. They're improving, though, ain't they? No? Worse than ever? Well, I swear! What can we do? Well, I thought you wanted us to do nothing. That's what we're doing here at Washington. Oh, I see; you think in spite of that it'll go hard with us in November. They are ugly, eh? Have I noticed it? Yes, some of the little manufacturers are kicking like steers because the steel men are still holding them up on prices. What do I tell 'em? I've told 'em if they don't quit their little tariff game it'll go up the flue. What do they say to that? They're fighting mad and say they don't care a continental; they can get along without the tariff if they get a square deal on materials. Yes, you bet they're getting wise. And then the newspapers—they're after us about paper. No; we can't go back on the paper combine, but we must keep the editors good natured. You're got a scheme? I'll bet it's a good one. How's that? Get up a Sunshine society? Well, maybe that would—Oh, yes; faith cure; sort of Christian Science; absent treatment. Hard times a delusion, eh? Make 'em think a boom is coming sure. What's that? Think it's here already? Well, that's better yet. Do I think it'll work? Why, your fellows can work anything with the newspapers you've got and the bankers to holler for us. I wonder why those Democratic clumps didn't think of this in '93. Hello! Say, old Stand Pat, where are you going to begin this con game Sunshine business? St. Louis, eh? Good place! Lots o' suckers down there or close by. Spread! Oh, you bet it'll spread. Run like fire! Get 'em all to shouting once. How's that? Organize one in our town? I should say yes. My friend Sure Thing Tithegood is just the man to head it. Don't mention it, old friend. Always glad to help serve the American people! So long.

MANUFACTURERS BLIND.

They Still Have a Notion That Ship Subsidy Will Help Trade.

That the manufacturers of the country are waking up to the necessity of foreign markets for their products is evident from the action recently taken by the National Manufacturers' association in convention at New York and the American Cotton Manufacturers' association at Richmond. The manufacturers favor a decided reduction of tariff duties. They begin to see that we must import a few more goods if we would largely increase our exports. We can't sell without buying, and we must have cheaper raw materials. They have touched solid bottom here. But in the matter of ship subsidies they seem to be floundering in the quagmire of economic fallacy and superstition.

The New York convention went on record as favoring the "little subsidy" scheme tacked on as an amendment to the postoffice appropriation bill. The idea was also given prominence by the cotton manufacturers at Richmond. Their president is quoted as saying: "It is idle to think of our getting a foreign trade without having transportation facilities under our own flag."

The nonsense wrapped up in such a statement may be partially appreciated when we consider that in the year ending with June, 1907, we sent abroad merchandise worth more than one and one-half billion dollars, less than one-tenth of which was sent "under our own flag." The foreign bottoms would cheerfully have carried more of our goods if we had given them the chance at the lowest competitive rates. The idea that a nation cannot get foreign trade except under its own flag is also absurd from a theoretical standpoint. A trade involves two parties. If it is carried on under the flag of one nation the other is trading no less than the first. The carrier may belong to one nationality or to the other or to neither, but trade may go on and be profitable to both.

There are good reasons why we should try to build up a merchant marine, but not because we cannot get trade without it, and of all the methods suggested the subsidy is the least effective or defensible. It is fortunate that the house has refused to stand for this mail subvention scheme tacked on by the senate as the entering wedge for larger subsidy gifts in the future.

The Basis of Prosperity.

"We do hereby declare the conviction that the great prosperity of our country rests upon the abundant resources of the land chosen by our forefathers for their homes and where they laid the foundation of this great nation."

No, this is not a resolution passed by a free trade convention engaged in an unpatriotic conspiracy to make it appear that American prosperity is or can be due to anything but the protective tariff. It is a part of the declaration of principles unanimously adopted by the recent conference of governors at Washington. When freed from an occasion that prompts intellectual narrowness and partisan bigotry, normal minds will at once assent to the proposition that the large field to labor and capital in this country as compared with others is due to natural advantages and the energy of the people, not to any restrictions placed upon their freely exchanging their products for those of other nations.

FATALITIES FEW

Remarkable For City Which Has Had But Two Deaths During Month of August.

Two weeks of the month of August have gone into history and in that time there have been but two deaths within the city, a most remarkable record for a city of thirty thousand souls. The four undertaking firms in the city will not declare any great dividends on this month's profits. Two of them have not turned a wheel and two others have had one case each since the first of the month.

The city broke a record in the month of June there being but 15 deaths in the city in that month. August bids fair to beat that record though grim Death may defeat the plans of the doctors and health department after all.

Be that as it may, the city has been remarkably free this summer from serious epidemic. Typhoid fever which often thrives during the warm months, is rare in Newark. Other complaints common to the summer season have been unusually lacking this year and all of this goes to show what a healthy city we have.

THE PREVENTION OF BLINDNESS

Among Children is a Grave Problem Which Confronts the State Commission for the Blind.

The new state commission for the blind at its meeting held this week, acknowledged that one of the most serious problems to be solved in the interest of the blind was that of preventing infantile blindness. It was decided to ask the co-operation with the state board of health of all physicians and humanitarian in the state to that end. Superintendent Van Cleave of the state school, who is president of the commission, said: "This is perhaps the most serious problem with which the commission will have to deal and we believe that much can be accomplished with the help of parents and the physicians. We are open to engagements and in fact invite any that will tend to help us in preventing blindness among children."

It also was determined yesterday that the task of taking a complete census and making a report of each individual blind resident of Ohio was too great to accomplish before the meeting of the Legislature, and it was decided that each of the six members of the commission should take two counties and make a thorough canvass and census. This will enable the commission to make a report November 17 on about one-eighth of the state and will enable the Legislature to get a line-upon the extent of the task devolving upon the members of the commission. It will also, it is thought, induce the Legislature to make a sufficient appropriation to carry the work of the commission to completion.

The members all are unanimous in reporting a very enjoyable time that was spent during the outing. The club entertained lavishly and nearly two hundred visiting friends partaking of the club's hospitality.

Honest, reliable, fair, square, satisfactory dealing is the way we do business—regardless of what our competitors tell you. They say we can't stand the prices. We say that after dropping 25 to 40 per cent. on the prices you have been paying, we still have an average margin of 25 per cent. profit left, but we have that profit in cash, while they have a big percentage of bad accounts. A small cash profit is what we prefer. Goods delivered free to all parts of city. Both phones.
